My overall perspective of my site is super simple. I really wasn't going for something so simple, but it just happened like that! My first idea was to make a product page to buy the best make-up, but that didn't work out; so I went for a make-up blog, because I had so much of myself in it, why not? I took my own pictures and made my own video and just basically made this site based off of what I like!

(I didn't use any online graphics!)
